Conscious Discipline Skill for the Next Week: Assertiveness
Conscious Discipline is for Kids and Adults
A new skill will be introduced every two to three weeks.

Assertiveness means setting limits respectfully. The goal of assertiveness is to communicate in a way that paints a calm, clear picture of what you want others to do. Learning to act more assertively will help you get what you need or want and still have a healthy, positive relationship with others. Using calm assertiveness helps you stand up for yourself and others. Using calm assertiveness also keeps you in your executive state and allows you solve problems more effectively.
